LICK-
WILMERDING
HIGH SCHOOL
1992

Since we entered Lick together four years ago, I think of the Class of 1992 as "my class". It has been great fun for me to "grow-up" with you over the past four years, and I view your imminent departure with mixed emotions: pride in your accomplishments and excitement about your future possibilities, as well as nostalgia about our time sharing Lick's "hall culture" and a tinge of sadness as I contemplate Ocean Avenue without you. You have been a wonderful, pioneering class, and I thank you for all of the encouragement and support you have given me these past four years.

I was tempted, in this short tribute, to employ uplifting metaphors related to the accompanying photo of me on top of Kit Carson Peak. But instead, this occasion turns my thoughts to another mountain — one which came to be known as "Mt. Lick". We have come a long way since that first year of slogging through the mud and being fieldless, while the Ehrert-Wynne Building was under construction. In many ways that building, including the Class of '92 Gallery and Amphitheater, is emblematic of Lick's future. You have all helped, in a very real way, to shape that future. On behalf of those of us who remain at Lick and generations to come, I thank you. Best wishes!

Ray Marchese

According to Ray, the happiest day in his life was when he stepped into Lick for the first time. He had left teaching a few years earlier for a more financially lucrative job. One day he heard of an opening for a physics teacher in a San Francisco high school, and decided to return to teaching. Obviously, it was the right choice.

Ray Marchese was a close friend to many of us at Lick. We enjoyed him, loved him, and respected him. When we think about Ray, smiles come to our faces and wonderful memories start to stream into our consciousness. Ray died too early, but years on the earth are too simple a measure by which to judge a life. He had a great life- he loved his work, he loved many people, and he loved life itself.

D.D.: Thanks for all you've done for me. I don't know what I'd do without you. Remember, fantasy is just a step away from reality.

I saw their starved lips in the gloam,
With horrid warning gaped wide,
And I awoke and found me here,
On the cold hill's side.

And this is why I sojourn here
Alone and palely loitering,
Though the sedge has wither'd from the lake,
And no birds sing.

Our revels now are ended. These are actors
(As I foretold you) were all spirits, and
Are melted into air, into thin air,
And like the baseless fabric of this vision,
The cloud-capp'd tow'rs, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall disolve,
And like this insubstantial pagaent faded
Leave not a rack behind. We are such stuff
As dreams are made on; and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep.

All quotes are from The Notebooks of Lazarus Long by Robert A. Heinlein.

If you happen to be one of the fretful minority who can do creative work, never force an idea; you'll only abort it if you do. Be patient and you'll give birth to it when the time is ripe. Learn to wait.

Never underestimate the power of human stupidity.

A competant self-confident person is incapable of jealousy in anything. Jealousy is invarlbly a symptom of neurotic insecurity.

Of all the strange "crimes" that human beings have legislated out of nothing, "blashemy" is the most amazing- with "obsenity" and "indecent exposure" fighting out for second and third place.

Sin lies only in hurting others unnecessarily. All other sins are invented nonesense. (Hurting yourself is not sinful just stupid.)

Yeild to temptation it may not pass your way again.

Sex Should be friendly. Other wise stick to mechanical toys; it's more sanitary.

Everything in excess! To enjoy the full flavor of life take big bites. Moderation is for monks.

Aubrey Beardsley

Freedom begins when you tell Mrs. Grundy to go fly a kite.

Money is a powerful aphrodisiac. But flowers work almost as well

The second most preposterous notion (humans dreamed up) is that copulation is inherently sinful.

Aubrey Beardsley

Sarah Jane Bruner

Never try to have the last word. You might get it.

Time passes. Listen. Time passes.
Come closer now.
Only you can hear the houses sleeping in the streets in the slow deep salt and silent black, bandaged night...

And indeed there will be time
To wonder, 'Do I dare?' and, 'Do I dare?'
Time to turn back and descend the stair,
With a bald spot in the middle of my hair—
[They will say: 'How his hair is growing thin!']
My morning coat, my collar mounting firmly to the chin,
My necktie rich and modest, but asserted by a simple pin—
[They will say: 'But how his arms and legs are thin!']
Do I dare
Disturb the universe?
In a minute there is time
For decisions and revisions which a minute will reverse,

Do Not Go Gentle into That Good Night

Do not go gentle into that good night,
Old age should burn and rave at close of day;
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

Though wise men at their end know dark is right,
Because their words had forked no lightning they
Do not go gentle into that good night

Good men, the last wave by, crying how bright
Their frail deeds might have danced in a green bay,
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

Wild men who caught and sang the sun in flight,
And learn, too late, they grieved it on its way,
Do not go gentle into that good night.

Grave men, near death, who see with blinding sight
Blind eyes could blaze like meteors and be gay,
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

And you, my father, there on the sad height,
Curse, bless, me now with your fierce tears, I pray.
Do not go gentle into that good night.
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

past his dark reflection
(through the looking glass; out to grabe)

End game; the field is clear now
Amid the strewn bodies of the wise and powerful he plods on
to pissibility.

From the Faust Family

Sometimes it seems to me that it doesn't matter what I do—
that it is enough to exist
to sit somewhere, in a garden for example,
watching whatever is to be seen there,
the small events.

The world is full

At other times
I'm aware that other people
perhaps a great number of others could be affected by what I do, or fail to do - that I have a responsibility to make the best use of whatever talents I've been given for the common good.

It is not enough to sit in that garden, however restful and pleasurable it might be.
The world is full of unsolved problems, situations that demand careful, reasoned, and intelligent action.
